GOVERNMENT SYSTEM

The Beatus Cras is a Synarchy, which means a joint rule. For the BC, this means the nation is run by a single council that decides executive, legislative, and judicial statutes. The Lord Campbell and Lady Elizabeth control the only physical territory of the micronation, and so make up the council. The council is the only governmental body, and has the responsibility to create and enforce laws, as well as uphold the constitution. They ensure the nation runs smoothly and stays active.

CITIZENS

Citizens of the Beatus Cras must be at least 14 to become a provisional member, and at least 18 to become a full member. Provisional members cannot head any departments. All members can vote on laws that are passed by the council before they go into effect.

The responsibility of each citizen is to do their best to follow the mission of the nation: to create a better future through actions done today. After 3 months, citizens can apply to be ministers over a department of their choice.
